

Equivalency Program

A. INTRODUCTION

The Institute of Municipal Assessors (IMA) has a policy of granting course equivalencies toward the entry level A.I.M.A. designation and the M.I.M.A. Accredited designation.

This policy is intended to accommodate candidates who have:

- Successfully completed courses that sufficiently demonstrate required competencies of specific IMA courses
- Achieved education through other reputable and recognized appraisal and assessment institutions without compromising the recognized high standard of qualification represented by the A.I.M.A. and M.I.M.A. designations.
- Practiced or have been educated through recognized professional property assessment and appraisal associations/agencies, and/or similar educational institutions within and/or outside the Province of Ontario.

There may be unique instances where candidates can clearly demonstrate fluency and understanding of course competencies through work-related experience. For example, someone who has taught a course for a significant period or has taken advanced related courses, may be considered to have the required competencies for an IMA course.

In such circumstances, the IMA may recognize certain competencies that can be demonstrated through work-related assessment experience. However, this aspect of the equivalency policy requires proper understanding of the job related experience to ensure consistent application by the accreditation committee. The IMA is first and foremost, "an educational body", and the best demonstration of course equivalency is through other courses that cover similar subject matter.

The Accreditation Committee is charged with the responsibility of approving the equivalencies applications and to assess each equivalency application on the basis of specific individual merits.
